Understanding Deeper Developmental Needs
Adam Blanning, M.D.
The gestures with which a child moves, listens, eats, or sleeps help tell the child’s story. Teachers, counselors, and medical doctors will find tools here for enriching their work with children.

Early Childhood Wisdom: A Journey Through the Playgroup Year
Ebba Bodame and Meg Quinlisk
Families of young children today face a fast-paced world of consumerism and isolation. Many of us have lost touch with the traditions and rhythms that ground our lives and connect us to nature. The Steiner playgroup offers connection and meaning, supporting both the child starting out on a social life and the new parents creating a family life.
• 114 pages, perfect-bound. ISBN 978-0-646984926 $25

Waldorf Early Childhood Association of America

About WECAN

“Real, true creative play takes time, and children need—not to be moved from activity to activity—but time to actually explore the materials that are at hand. It’s timeless, in a sense, and in once-upon-a-time, anything can happen.”

—Lisa Miccio, Waldorf Early Childhood Educator, from “Ample Time and Space”

WECAN’s mission is to foster ongoing renewal of early childhood education for the protection and support of healthy human development from birth to age seven. Our regular dialogue with teachers and families throughout North America, including the U.S.A., Canada, and, increasingly, Mexico; our dedication to professional development, collaborative research, and outreach to others seeking to support healthy development; and, of course, our growing list of publications all serve to support this renewal.

As a Member of the International Association for Steiner/Waldorf Early Childhood Education (IASWEC), WECAN seeks to bring awareness of the worldwide Waldorf movement to our North American educators through e-newsletters, conference offerings, and publications.

Reaching Out to Libraries and Bookstores

To all of our WECAN colleagues, customers, and Waldorf families:

Does your school or Waldorf community have a store or library that might be interested in carrying our books? WECAN Publications offers resources for early childhood teachers and families, designed to educate and inspire both in school and at home.

Your bookstore, school store, or library can help us to make these resources available to your school community and beyond. If you know who we might contact to make more of our publications available to your community, we would very much appreciate your putting us in touch. Contact Melissa Lyons at (845) 352-1690 or info@waldorfearlychildhood.org.

View our Calendar of Events, sign up for our quarterly e-Newsletters and monthly Research Digests, and most importantly: become a Member of WECAN! Follow us on Facebook at WaldorfEarlyChildhoodAssociationOfNorthAmerica.

The Waldorf Curriculum Fund

WECAN is extremely grateful for the support we receive from the Waldorf Curriculum Fund. Very generous grants from the Fund over the years have made the ongoing publication of every title in this catalog possible.

The impact of WECAN Books on the world Waldorf movement is growing. In the English-speaking world, our books are now much more available to educators and others through distribution agreements abroad; and several of our books have now been translated into Spanish and Chinese. We are always seeking opportunities to expand access to our offerings and to work in partnership with other like-minded organizations around the world.

Without the Waldorf Curriculum Fund’s support, this kind of agility and expansion would not be possible. From all of us at WECAN to those at the Waldorf Curriculum Fund, thank you.

Beginning Well

Dögl, Rischke, Strub

The first years of life are fundamental to development from birth to age seven. Our knowledge of how children grow and our experiences and qualities young children today need: Ample Time and Space * Caring Environments * Consistent Rhythms * Real Life Activities * Relationships Based on Love * Educators Committed

Supporting the Sense of Life

Wiechert, Langhammer

A reflection of human development from a medical and pedagogical perspective, this text examines the holistic human being’s development from early childhood to adulthood in the context of the education–health for life paradigm. It is intended for educators and other professionals as well as parents of young children. The authors demonstrate through a vast array of scientific research, case studies, and personal experiences that the Education–Health for Life paradigm offers a holistic and unique understanding of childhood development.

Empathy From the Very Beginning

Dögl

A trove of wisdom on mindful care for the child from birth and into childhood. This book begins with an in-depth look at childhood development and explores the foundations for empathetic care of the child, with an emphasis on the first years of life.

Beginning Well

Dögl, Rischke, Strub

The first years of life are fundamental to development from birth to age three, based on the teachings of Rudolf Steiner and the theories and practice of Emmi Pikler. Full-color photographs offer clear illustrations of empathetic and practical childcare from daily care routines and suitable play activities. Lessons from a renowned teacher and a pediatrician are presented in a way that will contribute to your shared journey with the young child.

Beginning Well

Dögl

Together, Pia Dögl works with Alex W. U. Kolisko and Emmi Pikler. Dögl’s work is based on the teachings of Rudolf Steiner and is founded on her unique and innovative work with children. Holistic and comprehensive, the book offers a way of working that is supportive of parents and their needs.
